

Academic & Career

Taking the Right Path ...

Gorman & Gorman, Inc. has provided vocational rehabilitation, career development, and life care planning throughout North America since 1975.

Our work with young adults frequently involves academic testing and counseling. Dr. Gorman has participated in numerous IEP meetings as a consultant and advisor.

Services are increasingly important. For the high school student, career and educational services become increasingly important. The loss of even one high school or college semester can significantly impair one's future earnings. For example, if a surgeon lost one of the first or second years of his or her career, the loss could well be in the $450,000 range. Can you imagine what the loss might be later on? The same would be true of the high earnings available to welders, mechanics, truck drivers, computer specialists and other skilled technicians. An effort to get on the right academic and career track can make all the difference.

We are here to help map out solutions to difficult problems. We look for the best answers in order to fine-tune the career development. We utilize state of the art assessment materials for college courses and curriculum major selection. We also assist students inclined toward technical trades in selecting the best possible location for training.
